

HSENI invites you to a workshop and seminar which will provide essential information on a range of health issues in the construction industry.

Who should attend?

Owners and managers in small construction subcontractors and related trades

What are the key areas of learning?

Delegates can expect to get information on:

- Health risk management
- The workplace management of the ill employee
- Health promotion

In addition they will be able to learn how other construction companies have addressed these issues and they will be introduced to the Buildhealth website
