Webinar

Monday 13th December

Just what is this COP26 thing all about?

What should we be doing at the coalface (pun intended)

COP26 hasn't been out of the news lately and if asked what it is, most would be able to explain that it is Governments coming together to talk about climate change in an effort to agree on how they are planning to tackle it.

Most people are likely be able to say that it's the most important ever and to talk about 1.5C of warming.

But what can we do in our workplaces to assist? Chris Allen is Senior Environmental Consultant at Mabbett and in his presentation he'll talk about:-

- What is COP 26 and why its important.
- What it has to do with the Paris Climate Agreements.
- What net-zero really means.
- What achieving net-zero might entail.
- The difference between climate mitigation and adaptation.
- What does it have to do with health and safety.

Chris will do this without 'jargon' or 'buzz words'. and will cite working examples of inexpensive wins that all can achieve.
